About Ethiopia

Lalibela, located in northern Ethiopia, is a UNESCO World Heritage site renowned for its remarkable rock-hewn churches. These churches are carved directly into the solid volcanic rock of the region, creating an awe-inspiring architectural wonder that attracts visitors from around the world.

The churches of Lalibela were constructed in the 12th century during the reign of King Lalibela, who sought to create a "New Jerusalem" in Ethiopia. Legend has it that King Lalibela was inspired by a vision to build a series of churches that would rival the grandeur of Jerusalem, which had become difficult for Ethiopian Christians to visit due to conflict and political instability in the region.

Bete Giyorgis/Bete Giyorgis/House of Saint George (below) is one of the most iconic and visually striking churches in Lalibela, Ethiopia.
